NAHS Members Have a Pattern of Creative Service

by Julie Limerick, NAHS Adviser

The National Art Honor Society of TPHS continues to quietly work their magic spreading the love and appreciation of art throughout our school and community. Prior to both Halloween and Thanksgiving, several members volunteered at the Child Development Center at Carmel Creek Elementary thrilling young children with crafts and face painting. The TP NAHS members' love of art is visible on our campus as well with their ongoing trashcan painting project done after school on Fridays. Presently, plans are underway to beautify the art quad with the creation of updated murals to frame the space. In an upcoming fundraiser, members will be selling homemade baked goods in front of the school between 2:35 and 3:30 on Dec. 14, 15, & 16. We hope everyone will support our efforts by purchasing some yummy goodies. New members are always welcome -- just drop by Ms. Limerick's room on Wednesdays at lunch and see how you can get involved in this honor society for artistically talented students.

NAHS members recently finished wall tiles for the Girls Team Room.

Welcome New Falcon!
